The Galleries at the Capitol. Writes Grace Greenwood to the New York Times, both writer and paper deep dyed in the Republican creed: The Philanthropic allusion of Mr. Cox to the colored patriots, "sitting uniformly in the galleries," suggests a question which somebody ought to consider and act upon, and that some body should be the Senate or the House of Representatives. It is, shall men and boys, however well colored, but ragged to the point of indecency, and dirty to absolute filthiness, continue to enjoy the freedom of the galleries? They now make them their lounging and rest ing places. Some of these habitues are famous sleepers. Even when the rights and privileges, and wrongs and disabilities of their own race are under discussion, somnolency overcomes them, and they sleep "not wisely, but too well." Senators have told me that through all their night sessions they are encompassed about by this dark cloud of oblivious witnesses, who sometimes spend the entire night, especially if the weather be cold or stormy, luxuriating in the warmth and comfort of the summerlike air, and soft-cushioned seats of the gallery. Now, the question is, should the Senate Cham ber be used as a station-house for vagrants. however meritorious, and tatterdemalions, however patriotic? Colored women, having a more lively sense of propriety, and not having the franchise, seldom visit the Capitol, except in their Sunday best, and they generally manage to have a Sunday best; yet I saw the other day. in the ladies' gallery of the Senate, a couple of elderly colored laundresses, who evidently did not do their own washing, neither did they put

The Louisiana Case.

NEW ORLEANS, February 18. - A mass meeting of citizens opposed to the present usurpation of the government of the State was held at Exposition Hall this evening, under the auspices of the committee of seventy. Twelve hundred persons were present. Several addresses were delivered and resolutions adopted. The preamble recounts the election of 1872, the famous Durell order, and the subsequent action of the United States authorities there under an action taken by the people endeavoring to obtain their rights, the tolerance ef the people under wrong and oppression, and declares that "we repel with indignation and contempt the entirely false imputations that we acquiesce in or are content with the ignominious government which has been illegally and wickedly set up to bear rule over us;" there-

Resolved, That we shall continue our efforts to remove the intolerable burdens of reproach and shame which have been put upon us in violation of law and the constitution, and abuse of power, until hope of success shall be wholly destroyed.

Resolved, That we claim now at the hands of Congress, as we have in the past, recognition of the government elected in November, 1872, of which Gov. Mchnery is the head, or in default thereof, that the present government be suspended by military provisional rule, and a new election ordered under federal auspices as the best that can be accorded us.

THE SHAD AND HERRING FISHERIES -The season for the prosecution of shad and berring fishing in North Carolina waters has already commenced, the receipts of shad br the Norfolk boat yesterday being ten barrels, which is now the daily average. The supply will grad-ually increase, until it reaches fifty and then 100 barrels per day. The first North Carolina shad are caught in Albemarle and Pamtico Sounds in stake nets, each thirty-six feet long, and 15,000 or 20,000 of these nets are set, and fished by men in small boats, 200 nets being managed by one boat. From five thousand to a million shad are caught in this way every season. These fish are at once packed in ice and in fifteen hours are in Norfolk, and in twenty-four hours after being caught are landed in this city. From here many are shipped to points in the West. In March the North Carolina fisheries about Edenton are in full blast, the enormous hauls of shad and herring being landed by means of seines. At least one million shad and many more herring are caught, the shipments reaching from one hundred to five hundred large boxes each day. The North Carolina fish are considered superior. because they are caught as soon as they leave the sea, and are always fat and in excellent condition. Shad first reached here this season early in January, having been caught in St. Johu's river, Florida, and brought to Baltimore by the Savanuah steamers. These fish are gener ally poor, and whilst North Carolina shad now sell at $60 per hundred, the Florida article commands but $30. The Potomac and Maryland shad and herring fishermen commence operations about the first of April, and the same fish are not eaught in the waters north of here until as late as May and June.-Balt. Am.

A Young LADY TERRIBLY BURNED. -A correspondent of the Richmond Dispatch. writing from Charlottesville, under date of February 17, says: 'Our community was shocked on Friday on hearing of a dreadful catastrophe, which happened four miles below here on Thursday night, at the residence of Mrs. Virginia Macon, the mother of L S. Macon, esq., for some years High Sheriff of this county. It appears that Mrs. Macou's daughter, Miss Lucy W. Macon, had retired to her room, and had set down before the fire to read, when she fell asteep, her clothing and the chair upon which she sat, taking fire meanwhile, and to such an extent had the fire progressed that when she awoke she was unable to extinguish it, burning her hands seriously in the attempt. She immediately ran down stairs to her mother's room, where she had to wait sometime for entrance, the flames meantime making fearful progress in her clothing. Upon entering the room, however, her mother dashed a bucket of water over her, and her sister threw her upon the bed and smothered what of the fire remained. She is terribly burned, and is in a very critical condition.

Private advices received yesterday stated that Miss Macon's condition had improved.

THE TEMPERANCE CRUSADE. - Dispatches state that the temperance prayer movement has been started at Manchester, Iowa, a band of women having already visited a number of aloons and held services. A report from Lincoln, near Omaha, says the women's temperance movement has been inaugurated there. Yesterday afternoon thirty wo-
